Dear Gan Khing,

I enclose some photos of the mango tree at 73 Sultan Gate (Gedung Kuning). The 2012 picture showed the tree girth. I hope the tree can be endorsed as a heritage tree due to the historical and cultural significance. Thank you.

Warmest regards,

Hidayah

Hi Hidayah

Thank you for your nomination and sharing with us the story behind the tree.

We will be visiting the nominated tree to assess it. If it meets the necessary requirements, we will submit it to the Heritage Tree Panel for their consideration and endorsement. The Panel meets in the last quarter of the year and is made up both NParks and non-NParks tree lovers.

Thank you for the support!

Regards,

Information of Nominated Tree

Brief description of tree: (species, girth size, height, age, if known)

Mango tree, girth size unknown, height: more than 2.5 metres, 39 years and 10 months old

Location of tree 73 Sultan Gate, Singapore 198497

Other reasons for nomination/Other comments

Our family used to live at 73 Sultan Gate or Gedung Kuning (the yellow mansion was acquired by the govt under Land Acquisition Act in 1999 for the Malay Heritage Centre). To commemorate my birth in 1972, my grandmother planted a mango seed in the garden in Gedung Kuning. This seed grew into a tree. The story and photo of my mango tree can be found on page 23 of 'Gedung Kuning: Memories of a Malay Childhood' book - <http://www.gedungkuning.com/book/index.htm>
